Building Upon the Legacy

N.C. A&T'S STRATEGIC PLAN TO BRIDGE FUTURES AND UNC TOMORROW

Battle

Callaway

Thompson

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University is engaged in developing a strategic plan that will build upon its legacy as a public, high research activity, land-grant university that is "committed to fulfilling its fundamental purposes through exemplary undergraduate and graduate instruction, scholarly and creative research, and effective public service."<sup>1</sup>

In October 2008, Chancellor Stanley F. Battle appointed the Building Upon the Legacy: Strategic Planning and Resource Council to serve as an advisory committee that would provide scholarly and thoughtful advice with respect to planning and resource allocation.

The Council – which is led by Battle along with co-chairs Alton Thompson, interim provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs, and Deborah J. Callaway, special assistant to the chancellor – was charged with bold thinking while engaging the process of strategic visioning; ensuring campus-wide participation; studying the facts/data; recommending membership of review/scanning teams and work groups; overseeing goal setting, priority setting and implementation; and maintaining a campus-wide perspective. These actions are critical to facilitate continuity in the strategic visioning process with regards to the UNC Tomorrow Initiative.<sup>2</sup>

Building Upon the Legacy is N.C. A&T's strategic bridge between Futures and UNC Tomorrow. The plan is designed to capture the most important initiatives and priorities of the constituent units and programs of the University (A&T), and to place them within the context of a set of overarching goals and values for the campus. It also sets the framework for the school/college and departmental plans.

"When completed, the plan will position North Carolina A&T to remain demand-driven, proactive and responsive, consistent with the University's mission of teaching, research and service," said Battle. "Given the inclusiveness, transparency and success of our UNC Tomorrow response plan efforts for Phases I and II, we have had a seamless transition to our strategic planning process."

Teams and work groups have been appointed to parallel the work groups and action teams of UNC Tomorrow. The teams include the Internal Scan Team, External Scan Team and Values Team. The groups include University Mission/Vision Work Group, Learning Enterprise, Discovery Enterprise, Engagement Enterprise, Public Education (Access and Improving) Health and Wellness, Global Competitiveness, Sustainability/Environment, and Operational Excellence.

Each team/group is responsible for developing goals, objectives, action strategies and performance metrics. The eight goals are outlined above.

The anticipated completion date for the strategic plan is fall 2009, pending approval from the N.C. A&T Board of Trustees.

<sup>2</sup> In February 2007, the UNC Board of Governors launched University of North Carolina Tomorrow, an 18-month initiative to determine how the 16-campus University can best meet the needs of the state and its people over the next 20 years.
