We offer a multitude of training classes for the campus community to learn about the services and technologies that are available. We encourage you to use these course offerings in order to expand your skill set, increase your marketability, learn a new discipline or reinforce your existing knowledge.

Each training class is presented by a knowledgeable trainer who will introduce you to the concepts of their topic in a clear and straightforward manner. Training sessions may include interactive presentations and demonstrations sometimes lasting an hour or more. Training topics are added routinely, and suggestions are most welcome.

Who can attend and how much does it cost?

All are welcome to attend at no cost. However, sessions will be provided to those who register on a first-come, first-serve basis.
