

North Carolina A&T
State University | explore. discover. become.

Academy for Teaching and Learning | enhancing university learning

about atl   programs and activities   news and information   resources   scholarship   teaching awards

ncat home | atl home | bluford library | distance learning | blackboard | information technology

About the Academy for Teaching and Learning (ATL)

---

The Academy for Teaching and Learning (ATL) is a campus-wide resource for faculty members that:

- increases faculty knowledge of the factors that affect student learning,
- encourages scholarly teaching grounded in research on student learning, and
- promotes the scholarship of teaching and learning, including classroom-based research, assessment of learning outcomes, public sharing of effective teaching practices, and basic research on teaching and learning issues.

Use the links above to access information about the programs and activities supported by the ATL, and in particular, the resources on teaching and learning that are available to enhance your teaching practice.

Questions or Comments: simkinss@ncat.edu